REVAN
Season 1 - The Butcherer

Revan – Episode 01 – The Legend

As In the house – In a heartbeat builds as a text fades on screen:

"4 thousand years before Luke Skywalker"

The screen blares to life revealing a white salt planet with black angular ships in orbit as Bastila's voice over says:

"There's an old Jedi legend lost to time…"

We zoom rapidly in on the planet, and see a white cloud start to cover the planet. The voice over continues:

"A man forged by war."

The screen sharp cuts to sith alchemical robots ripping through the ground, and then cuts back to the wind blowing gently as the voice over says:

"Some called it a revolution…"

The screen sharp cuts between shots of Jedi dead on the battlefield, lightsabers still flickering on the ground. As the song builds, we see burning bodies on the salt flats, ships burning crashed into the surface. The voice over says one last thing:

"Others called it terrorism."

We smash cut to Sith zombie like robots sprinting through the salt flats, dust ripping behind them as their ripped torsos held together with metal rip against the surface of the salt for 4 bars cutting between the different variants.

We smash cut to 3 jedi running. The master says:

"Come on! RUN!"

We see them running with a wide shot, the surroundings clear. The padawan trips and falls over one of the dead Jedi on the ground, his master turns and picks him up, as the kid is frozen looking at the dead Jedi, his shouts:

"DON'T THINK ABOUT IT!"

The Jedi knight with them picks him up, they continue running as the song builds, we smash cut to the zombies sprinting through the salt flats again, they stop suddenly near the ship the jedi will camp at but not too far, staring forward, a white dust cloud surrounds them and continues moving forward, as the song cuts.

We cut to see Revan's feet walking through the salt flats silently looking down, his robe flowing in the cloud of white as the robots move to the side, we don't see his mask, then the robots move to the side revealing Revan walking calmly out in silence as the song comes back in at it's peak, playing with floating kyber crystals, blue, green, and yellow, the robots still standing still.

We cut back to the Jedi in silence, as they stop behind a burning ship to gain their breath. The master says:

"I think we're safe for now..."

As he looks around, the padawan injured his knee and the master kneels and says:

“It’ll be alright.”

As he pulls out a gauze wrap from his pocket and wraps his knee. He says:

“You’ll be fine, it’s just a graze.”

He smiles, we see the terror and sadness in his eyes and the padawan with tears in his eyes smiles back. A synth drops, rumbling as the glow of the crystals can be seen behind him. The footsteps as Revan walks toward them. The knight reacts pulling his lightsaber out and igniting it, making the master turn and shout:

“You’ve won already! What more do you want?!”

Revan stops in silence, just for a second. He stares at the crystals in front of them as a scream can be heard and they bleed to red. Revan says in the silence, calmly, with no anger:

“The end of the Jedi Order.”

He starts to walk slowly towards the master, the master shouts:

“Then come and get it!”

He runs towards him and swings, Revan dodges it, sliding to the side, still not drawing his weapon and punches him in the kidney. The master stumbles back as the others watch in horror. The jedi knight runs towards him and Revan force pushes him, smashing him against the ship they were hiding behind. The master swings again and Revan dodges it simply sensing the blade, then round house kicks him across the face. The master falls to the ground and coughs up blood, he pretends to stay down as Revan slowly walks towards him then he horizontally swings at his legs, Revan blackflips over the blade lighting his light saber and decapitating him midair. The light saber is unique, it has a cracked kyber crystal but instead of having vents for the excess radiation, Revan has used a biological being that's grown inside the hilt, it's bloody, visceral and absorbs the radiation. It screams every time the blade comes on leading to a horrifying ignition sound. The master falls to the ground and behind his falling body we see the padawans face in horrified shock. Revan stands still as his lightsaber screeches; we cut to the padawan again then to Revan's lightsaber and we see the biological element moving in his hand as it reacts in pain.

The knight runs at Revan and Revan dodges the swing by sliding under his blade and force jumps back in a vertical standing position and says:

"You thought..."

He turns to him and angrily shouts with his arms out sideways:

"THAT YOU COULD CHALLENGE ME?!"

He moves them suddenly forward firing a concentrated beam of red force lightning, the Jedi tries to block it, but it rips through his blade and burns the man alive, throwing him against a ship. We see the padawan watch this, he looks over to the knight, not moving, he then turns crying and runs towards Revan shouting. He suddenly goes silent as he raises into the air. Revan is force choking him without turning. He turns and walks slowly to him. He uses the force to grab his light saber and turns it off as he says:

"They have children... going to war..."

He looks directly into the padawan's eyes, then throws him away. The padawan regains footing and Revan throws him his light saber and says:

"Show me what you've learnt boy."

The padawan picks up his light saber and ignites it, he tries to calm himself and recenter in the force and Revan shouts:

“NO! USE IT!”

He charges him, smashing the boy’s lightsaber out of his hands and throwing him back. Revan shouts:

“Hatred is a weapon. Use it!”

And force-throws him his lightsaber again now resting on the ground. The boy stands up and ignites his lightsaber with his eyes closed and his eyes turn yellow as he reopens them. Revan says:

“Good, Form 1.”

The boy changes stance and they duel for a few seconds, Revan trips him up by pushing his leg back, the boy falls onto the salt hurting his arms. Revan force jumps back and says:

“Not good enough, now 4.”

The boy stumbles getting back up and changes stance and they duel, Revan wins by throwing salt in his eyes using the force and disappearing in the dust turning off his blade, the echo of his voice can be heard as he says:

“Use the environment, it’s your greatest ally!”

As the boy spins around. He sees a black figure in the fog, and jumps out of rage towards the black figure, and Revan throws him to the ground and appears behind him. Revan says:

“One last lesson.”

There's a wide view as the dust settles, they're surrounded by the robots from before, still head's cocked, staring straight at them. The boy looks around then he runs at him in a full blood rage; he's now fully converted this Jedi padawan to a Sith. They start dueling again and he says:

"The weak, die."

Then he uses trakata, disengaging his lightsaber and reengaging it, cutting the boy in half as 21 Savage's Slidin' plays and as soon as the Chorus beat drop occurs on "Slidin" – 1:02 The camera jumps out to a wide shot with the text

REVAN

Centered above him. As the song's second part of the chorus hits, we see Malak walking through the crowd of sith robots, appearing behind Revan and laughs at the end of the lyric "When you was in college I was robbing". His laugh echoes out as we smash cut to the Jedi council, on an older coruscant. A jedi says:

"Revan has been tearing through our offensives all week, we cannot fight the Sith with a Jedi master in their ranks!"

Another Jedi says:

"You mean Darth Revan, he's no longer Revan."

Another Jedi says:

"He knows everything about us because he was Revan, we're fighting ourselves!"

The first Jedi says:

"Not necessarily, he was a good commander and a duelist but there were better, the thing that made him unstoppable was the war."

All the other Jedi look at him and one says:

"You can't seriously be suggesting we make a jedi master use the dark side of the force against, are you?"

The Jedi says:

"Do you have any other ideas to match Revan's ability, force sensitivity and duelist capabilities?"

The room goes silent, and the Jedi says:

"Exactly what I thought."

One Jedi says:

"No no. Hold up. What you're suggesting is exactly what happened to Revan, so what? We send in a master that converts to the sith and now there are 2 of them?"

Jedi 1 says:

"It's a risk we have to take."

4 says:

“No, it isn’t, our drone captured surveillance footage of Revan 24 hours ago. This is the fight.”

They watch the fight we just saw. As Revan uses force lightning one of them say:

“He’s a lot more powerful than he used to be…”

As Revan fights with the padawan the jedi showing them says:

“Watch this…”

Jedi 1 says:

“Is he training him?”

Jedi 4 says:

“Our best guess? He’s converting him to the dark side before…”

Revan kills him using trakata and the group of Jedis stumble back except 4. Jedi 1 says:

“Trakata is a banned fighting technique for both sides, the sith believe it’s cowardly…”

Jedi 4 says:

“And we belief it dishonorable, but Revan? He doesn’t use it because he’s a coward, he could’ve killed that kid at any point during the fight. No, he’s doing that because he sees him below him, so much so that he won't even give the padawan a chance at an honorable death."

Jedi 2 says:

"He's a monster..."

Jedi 1 says:

"This just proves we need to deal with him now before he gets any more powerful."

Jedi 3 says:

"Who did you have in mind?"

We slowly transition to a ship arriving at the Starforge as Hier Encore by Charles Aznavour is playing, an ancient, non-sith, non-jedi space station, it's harvesting its sun to create ships and battle droids. We follow Revan exiting his ship and walking with his apprentice Malak towards the entrance of the forge. Guards surround them as they enter, they walk through and we see Sith lords bow as they enter, the black obsidian walls pulsing, glowing red as if it's alive. Revan and Malak walk to a balcony where they see the machines manufacturing ships below them out of liquid metal, the liquid metal flows in intricate circles creating religious imagery, sigils, and bubbling violently as it does so. The song fades as Malak says:

"The Jedi order will soon collapse."

There's a pause as they watch the rivers and Revan says:

"We've been saying that for 4 years Malak."

Malak says:

"But I can feel it Master, you will change the tide of this war."

Revan looks him dead in the face and says:

"It feels like all I've known is war..."

Malak says:

"Don't you want to win?"

Revan sighs and says:

"I want peace Malak... finally... peace."

He starts to walk towards a large room, he stops for a second and ends with:

"Through force."

He the continues to walk into a large hall with a set of Sith lords sitting around drinking. One of them says:

"We heard about your recent exploits, what's it up to now?"

Revan walks over to a wall full of tallys. He picks up a knife, and starts carving, he carves 37 tallys into the wall. He turns and the rest of the sith are shocked. One says:

"You took out 37 jedi on your own?"

Revan says:

"Well Malak helped."

Another says:

"In a single day?"

Revan says:

"What can I say? I'm very good at what I do."

As he walks over and sits down, he pours himself a drink and says:

"To the end of the war, and with it, the Jedi Order!"

The rest raise they drinks. We see Malak watching them confused, and he walks off, we follow him as he paces on the balcony, and he says:

"What did he mean peace? We're sith. We destroy! We hate everyone, we despise the weak! What did he mean peace??!"

He punches the wall, and, on the punch, we smash cut to the Jedi temple, it's raining outside and a female Chiss jedi (Ekralon) is standing under cover watching the rain fall, as a peaceful piano comes in. Her master walks behind her, another woman, a twi'lek (Arlek Thirun). She says:

"You can't stay out in the cold all day you'll get a chill."

Ekralon says:

"I'll come in shortly; I just like the cold."

Arlek smiles to herself and walks up and says:

"Or is it because the others don't like you."

Ekralon sighs. Arlek says:

"They've never seen a Chiss, let alone a Chiss female that's also a very talented padawan."

Erkralon smiles and says:

"I don't get it, why don't they want to talk to me, shouldn't they want to find out?"

Arlek sighs and says:

"Fear of the unknown. The scariest thing you can ever encounter."

Ekralon says:

"Is there food?"

Arlek laughs and says:

“Of course, there’s always food… Come.”

They walk into the temple off the balcony as the piano increases in volume in beat with their walk, they pass other padawan training, other padawan her age are ignoring her or not looking her way or if they are they quickly avert their gaze. They enter a room and sit down. A floating droid brings them a meal, and they start to eat. Arlek says:

“You know, when I first came to the Jedi council, they didn’t like me either.”

Ekralon says:

“But you’re an amazing Jedi Master…”

Arlek says:

“No, I’m not, I’m just a Jedi.”

Ekralon pauses and says:

“Are you sure that one day I can become like you master?”

Arlek says:

“If that’s what you want? Sure.”

Ekralon smiles and says:

“Then that’s what I’ll become, I’ll prove them all wrong.”

Arlek smiles as they continue eating and we transition to a sky shot of the Jedi temple with calm serene music, then a harsh electronic crash can be heard, as we transition to Star Forge's training dojo. Malak is training against droids and Revan is watching, we get a small montage of Malak ripping through the droids, he screams as we smash cut to Malachor V, he's standing eyes blaring red, covered in blood as Mandalorians fly towards him, he uses force destruction as we smash cut back to the droids destroying them all. A sith walks behind Revan and says:

"One day he'll be better than you."

Revan says:

"I hope. He still has a long way to go though."

The Sith says:

"What's the plan sir?"

Revan says:

"We're leading a small battalion of assassins to a critical mining planet for the republic. The goal is to take over operations and steal their fuel and while we're at it, might as well blow some stuff up."

The Sith lord says:

"Perfect"

He smiles, looking out to Malak. Revan turns to this Sith and says:

“Why are you here?”

The Sith says:

“In this room master?”

Revan says:

“No, why are you a Sith?”

The man freezes for a second and thinks then he says:

“The Sith saved me from a planet the republic chose to bomb, apparently I wasn’t force sensitive enough to qualify for the Jedi council and the Jedi have a non-interference policy, so I was weak enough to be forgotten, important enough to not get involved with.”

Revan says:

“So, you’ve always been a Sith?”

The man says:

“Of course, Master.”

Revan says:

“Do you want to learn both Jedi and Sith teachings?”

The Sith says:

"Can I?"

Revan says:

"You can learn whatever you like, if you decide it's better for you to be a Jedi, be one, fuck the council, you be who you want to be. You can even be neutral but if you've never learnt, how do you know what's best for you?"

The sith looks surprised at this revelation. The screen split screens with Arlek as a man rushes in and says:

"Ma'am you need to see this!"

The screen expands to Arlek and Ekralon. A hologram turns on with a message from the Jedi council ordering Arlek to defend Khaross.

"We have priority information from a spy deep within the ranks of the Sith Empire, the next target is Khaross, a relatively close planet to where you're stationed, we need you to round up the rest of the Jedi on base and move to the defense of Khaross."

There's a pause and then Arlek says:

"Us? We're not battle trained... or even really trained... This is a training planet."

The council says:

"This is a matter of up most importance, a particular Sith will be in attendance today, you are the only Jedi we have who can match him in a fight."

Arlek says:

"Of course."

The council says:

"This next matter will need absolutely privacy..."

Arlek says:

"Of course, sir, Ekralon and what... ever your name is please wait outside for 5 minutes."

They both leave as Above the Euromechopolis starts to build with the synth and the council member says:

"Are we alone?"

Arlek says:

"Yes sir."

The council member sighs and says,

"We are authorizing emergency protocols, you might have to use the dark side of the force, you may have to use trakata, do anything to win, there are no rules."

Arlek says:

“But sir-“

The council member cuts her off and says:

“Duly noted and disregarded, we cannot lose. So don’t.”

Another jedi council member cuts in:

“You can’t seriously be asking her to do this?”

The Jedi council member addressing Arlek punches the table and says:

“We don’t have a choice anymore; he forced our hand!”

Then he recenters and says:

“Master Arlek, you have your orders.”

Arlek says:

“Sir… who am I fighting?”

We smash cut to her walking out as a peaceful piano piece play, ringing and tolling in her ears, emotionless. Ehkralon tries to talk to her, but it’s muffled. She walks out into the rain, and Ekralons’ voice comes in more clearly:

“Master? What happened?”

Arlek says:

“Just leave me be for a while.”

Ekralon says:

“Of course.”

The camera zooms out to a wide shot of her standing out looking out to the rain she sighs and says:

“Why Revan…”

As we slowly transition back to Revan and Malak in their ship, Revan is looking at his light saber slumped relaxed over a chair, as the song continues. The visceral biological growths inside pulsating and squishing, the harsh black titanium exterior containing it all. He pushes his finger into the center, and it starts to scream, he takes pressure off it. Then he ignites it, a violent visceral hum with a scream inside of it. He listens to it, as if in meditation. A Sith Lord with them says:

“You have the strangest lightsaber I’ve ever seen.”

Revan says:

“There are biological creatures that feed on Kyber crystal radiation.”

The lord returns:

“Why would it need it?”

Revan says:

“The crystal is cracked, and I didn’t feel like a cross guard. Too weak for me.”

The lord looks confused and says:

“Alright yeah, sure that tracks.”

Revan stands up as the ship drops out of hyper space and they immediately get fired on. We watch as Revan makes his way to a smaller ship and jumps inside. The ship takes off and he flies down to the surface, the shots are silent. As the ship flies through the air he ejects out of the ship, and it crashes into a building as the battle ground sounds can be heard. He ignites his light saber and lands in front of them as a harsh synth rips through the environment.

He turns to the group and we cut to Arlek and Ekralon in their ship, Arlek says:

“We should arrive shortly, expect deadly force, the Sith will be fighting against us today.”

Ekralon says:

“We’re fighting Sith?”

Arlek says:

“We are.”

One of the Jedi says:

“Do we know who?”

Arlek says:

“Not all of them but we know one of them.”

Ekralon says:

“Is that why you were worried earlier.”

Arlek can’t speak. Another Jedi says:

“Who is it?”

Arlek pauses and sighs, she says:

“Darth… Revan.”

The Jedi all stumble back shocked and one says:

“Revan is here and they’re sending us?!”

Another says:

“This is a death trap!”

Arlek shouts:

“We have no choice, the council ordered it, we do as the council says.”

Another shouts:

"We're DEAD! This isn't a fight! It's a slaughter!"

Ekralon says:

"Who's Revan?"

We smash cut to him cutting through soldiers as Arlek says:

"Revan is an ex-jedi knight, one of the best military tacticians, analysists, duelists, and warriors we've ever had."

Ekralon says:

"But he's a Sith?"

Arlek says:

"He chose it, apparently the council was not good enough for him, he needed more power. More will. That's the official story anyway..."

Ekralon says:

"And the unofficial story?"

Arlek sighs and says as the screen glitchs to a younger Revan slashing at Mandalorians on Malachor V:

“They abandoned him.”

We fade back into the ship there’s a silence, and Ekralon says:

“So, this won’t be easy.”

Arlek’s face is ashen and she looks at her with terror in her eyes and says quietly almost desperately:

“No, it won’t, just stay close.”

We cut back to Revan, the world’s sounds drowned out, buildings burning around him walking through the streets, Sith zombie robots ripping through the buildings. 4 Jedi chasing down a sith all appear in front of him, they stumble back as he continues to walk calmly, his mask splattered with blood, the audio comes back in as he stops and tilts his head, they all start to swing and try to overwhelm him, he kills one with trakata, he force throws another against a flag pole impaling him, he cuts another’s hands off and the jedi runs away, Revan watches him and throws his lightsaber cutting him down. He turns to the fourth. The jedi stabs himself in the stomach as Revan watches the reflection of fire on his mask, as he’s silent. We smash cut back to Arlek’s ship falling out of hyperspace, and we see the planet on fire. The ships start to fly down through the blaster fire; 2 ships get destroyed as they do so but the rest land. Arlek and Ekralon get out of their ship and see the massacre. A piece of a building gets thrown through another, and a hooded black figure is seen force jumping onto it as it collapses to the ground. He spots them and force jumps towards them, lands and stands up slowly as a harsh violent electric noise can be heard. Both jedi ignite their weapons and Revan laughs. Ekralon says:

“What are you?”

Revan stops and says:

“I should be asking you the same, this is who they sent?”

Arlek says:

“You’ve gone insane Revan.”

Revan says:

“Really Arlek? I couldn’t tell.”

With his arms out indicating to the destruction. Revan then says looking at the padawan:

“You know what this place is right?”

Arlek says:

“A mining planet.”

Revan corrects her:

“A slave mining planet.”

Arlek says:

“So, there are bad people in the galaxy… case in point.”

Revan laughs and says:

“Cute. I’m the villain, right? The Jedi, an order built on hope, an order built on peace is at war, defending a slave mining colony.”

He tuts and then says:

“What a disappointment.”

Ekralon says:

“What would you know about the Jedi?!”

Revan pulls out a wooden light saber like a wookie would use, it floats in the air, there’s an explosion and the two react to it but he’s focusing on the blade, he then crushes it using the force exposing the blue kyber crystal. He looks over to Ekhralon and then says:

“More than you could imagine…”

She watches as the crystal starts bleeding and turns red. Arlek says:

“You’re one for theatrics aren’t you.”

Revan says:

“I’m surprised you haven’t tried to hit me yet.”

Arlek says:

“I never hit an unarmed person.”

Revan says:

"The code... very noble, but you're wrong... I'm very armed."

She goes to swing, and Revan ignites his lightsaber and defends the swing, they start sparring. Both are trying but Arlek gets tired, and Revan isn't. She stumbles back and Revan hits her with force lightning throwing her against the building. Ekralon screams out and runs over to her master. Revan slowly walks over to them and Ekralon picks up her weapon and stands crying and says:

"You won't kill her!" and stands in defiance.

Revan looks over coldly, he kneels and says:

"Faith... that'll get you killed."

Ekralon is crying scared but standing still. He says:

"You're braver than I thought..."

She swings at him and he dodges it and force chokes her. She drops her lightsaber and he says:

"Death is a kindness."

He fires a blast of force lightning at the Ekhralon, she flies back and smashes against a wall. He walks over to Arlek and kneels. He places his lightsaber against her heart and says:

“You were a good person...”

He ignites it, killing her instantly, he says:

“At least it was quick.”

He closes her eyes and stands back up, he starts to walk back to leave but stops, he pauses for a second and looks over to the padawan and says:

“A Chiss Padawan?” under his breath.

He then says as he walks over to her:

“How are you all the way out here?”

He looks down at her and picks her up, he force grabs her lightsaber and stows it. He presses a red button on the bottom of his lightsaber, and a ship comes down, he gets in and sits her down then sits next to her and sees another Sith lord confused. He then says:

“Trophy.”

To the Sith lord across from him, who laughs manically. We cut to black. The screen fades in with a dull orange candle lit color. Ekralon sits up rapidly and suddenly screaming, she looks around the room and then when she looks to her right and sees Revan sitting outside her cell in a chair. She shrinks into the corner of the room and says:

“Where am I?”

Revan replies:

"The darkest place in the galaxy."

Ekralon says:

"Are you going to kill me?"

Revan says:

"Why? Should I?"

We focus on Revan as God's gonna cut you down (The Marilyn Manson version obviously) plays, he says one last thing:

"You're safe... for now"

We cut to the outside of the forge; we zoom out as ships leave and arrive to the forge. Then we smash cut to credits on the drop.
