REVAN

Season 1 - The Butcherer

Revan – Episode 08 – The Hunt

We open to STILL IN THE PAINT by Denzel Curry as the screen blares into a color as black war ships fly through hyper space. The ships drop out of hyper space and pods get launched (full on helldivers vibe) from a revolving cannon that spans the entire width of the ship, pods fly down by the hundreds, they land near a jedi temple and sith droids exit, hundreds of pods fly down repeatedly around them. The droids are half flesh, half robot, mindless killing droids almost like zombies, they start to swarm the temple fighting the Jedi, a ship flies down to the planet as more pods crash around them and 3 Sith get out, lead by Malak. They start to fight the Jedi and overwhelm them. We smash cut to Bastila walking down a hallway humming, as the music cuts.

She walks into her private quarters. She walks into her room and takes off her hair crest. She wipes the makeup off her face. It's quiet. She takes off her bra under her robe and walks over to the closet. She says in a raised voice:

"Seravé? Are you here?"

There's absolute silence. She looks around the door of the closet, she's still changing, and she says:

"Seravé?"

We see the corners of a gown wrap around her and she closes the door and walks out of the bedroom. There's a horror tone, as she walks down the dark hallway with no shoes on in a gown. She hesitates then opens Seravé's door. It's empty she sighs in relief, then she hears a crash in the lounge room and force grabs her lightsaber and ignites it. She slowly walks into the room. A red lightsaber screams alight at Seravé's neck, she's tied up with tape over her mouth and Revan is sitting mask off with a drink and Seravé screams through the tape with tears in her eyes. Revan says:

"Bastila, an honor. Please sit."

Indicating at the chair. Bastila slowly walks over to the wall instead and Revan force pulls her towards the chair and says:

"I wouldn't do that."

Bastila says:

"If you touch her, I will fucking kill you."

Revan starts laughing and opens his robe revealing a kyber bomb strapped to his chest, he says:

"I have a scorched earth policy. If I die, everyone does."

Bastila's face goes white and she says:

"You're insane!"

Revan shushes her and says:

"Please sit, you'll want to hear what I have to say."

She sits down and he says:

"Firstly introductions, I'm Revan, aka Darth Revan aka, Revan... the Bucherer."

She says:

"No shit I've been hunting you for months."

Revan says:

"Well that's understandable, it explains why I haven't been caught yet."

She pauses and says:

"I'm actually a great tracker... why are you here?"

Revan stands and refills his drink and says:

"To thank you."

Bastila looks over at Seravé and says:

"Interesting way of saying thank you."

Revan laughs and says:

"I needed leverage, I have leverage."

Bastila says:

"What are you thanking me for?"

Revan sits down again and pauses he then says:

“You stood up for my most loyal commander, and one of my best friends after the Mandalorian wars, I think you know her?”

Bastila looks shocked and says:

“Meetra?!”

Revan says:

“The same, she was the one who built the bomb that won us the war.”

Bastila says:

“She built the shadow generator?! I just thought she helped you use it!”

Revan says:

“One of the Jedi’s best engineers, unfortunate they decided to Exile a war hero.”

There’s a pause and Bastila says:

“War hero? That weapon killed 6 billion people.”

There’s another pause as Revan takes a sip and then says:

“10 billion die every day and you don’t cry. You saved a friend of mine from execution, which means I won’t kill you, I respect a Jedi with the balls to stand up to the council.”

Bastila says:

“We’re tracking you and you aren’t killing us?”

Revan smiles and says:

“Who knows… you might catch me.”

Bastila rolls her eyes and says:

“I’ve been meaning to ask, why didn’t you kill me before? Since we’re being honest.”

Revan puts his arms out and says:

“I work in mysterious ways.”

He starts to leave then suddenly turns around and puts his arms around her chair, he leans in and says:

“Just remember.”

He leans in and says:

“I can find you.”

He gets really close to her ear, the hair on the back of her raises as she feels his breath on her ear and neck looking forward at Serave. He finishes:

“Anywhere.”

He starts to chuckle, as he turns then loses it and laughs maniacally as if he can't hold it in, he leaves and force grabs his lightsaber and mask rapidly. The door of her quarters shuts, and she runs over to Seravé and undoes her tape gag and starts to untie her. She says:

"Are you alright?"

Seravé just starts crying. Bastila hugs her and says:

"It'll be alright. You're safe now."

We see her face as she holds Seravé as if she's thinking of something intensely and we cut to Revan as the chorus of back in the paint comes back in and he life drains a Jedi guarding a ship in the hanger, he drops his body outside as he enters and flies off and hyperspeed jumps away.

We smash cut to Revan walking through the hallways of the star forge in silence the metal clang of footsteps echoing through the entire facility. Zeravûn is sitting in the mess hall with Ekhralon as Revan walks in, Zeravûn says:

"So?"

Revan says:

"Bastila won't be bothering us for a while."

Ekhralon says:

"Jedi don't just give up."

Revan corrects her:

"Sith don't give up, it's in the job description for a Jedi to."

Zeravûn says:

"So you think she will?"

Revan leans against the bar and takes off his mask. He takes a sip of his drink and says:

"No, she's obsessed with me."

Malak walks in and puts his arms out; he's covered in blood. Revan says with a smile:

"Go well?"

Malak uses the force to float out 10 jedi holocrons and everyone cheers. Revan says:

"Perfect! Just what we needed."

Ekhralon says:

"Why do we need holocrons? Aren't they just information?"

Revan says:

"Because knowledge is power, we're removing theirs while enhancing ours."

Zeravûn says:

"An astute observation."

Revan smiles and says:

"I have experience with war..."

Malak sits down with a drink and Ekhralon says:

"If it's so important, why didn't you go?"

Revan says:

"Because I trust Malak, and because I needed to deal with Bastila."

Ekhralon says:

"Speaking of which, why didn't we just send hundreds of war ships."

She indicates at the star forge they're in and says:

"We're literally in a ship factory."

Revan says:

"Because an all-out war with the Jedi isn't how you win, both sides just lose."

Zeravûn says:

"Also we all want to avoid a Sith-Jedi war."

Ekhralon says:

"So the war ships and droids we're making?"

Revan says:

"A smoke screen, so we can accomplish our real goals."

He turns on a hologram projector and a news report comes on a woman says:

"Today in the Republic, Jedi Master Zhar has agreed to sit down and discuss with us the nature of the late Chancellor's death, welcome to the show Master Zhar."

Zhar Lestin says:

"Thank you."

The woman continues:

"Recently rumors have been floating around that the Chancellor's death was not a suicide and was in fact a planned assassination, thoughts?"

The Jedi master laughs and says:

“I can reassure the republic that it was a suicide and nothing unusual occurred. His wife was an avid drug user, and he couldn’t take it with the stress of leading the entire republic.”

The woman says:

“This leaked video shows different, a Sith lord who somehow snuck into the republic and walks into the Chancellor’s room. Is it possible he used a mind control ability or something like that?”

Zhar readjusts in his chair and says:

“I’m not sure what you mean I’ve never seen this video.”

The woman says:

“Well, I find that hard to believe as it was leaked from the Jedi library.”

Zhar says:

“It was- oh this? No this was a digital recreation of what might’ve happened, made during the investigation to aid in ideation, nothing more.”

The woman says:

Malak laughs and says:

“Oh shit, he’s on the run!”

The woman continues:

“Many in the galaxy are asking a simple question and I was wondering if I could get your thoughts.”

Zhar gulps down some water and adjusts and says:

“Please.”

The woman says:

“Many are asking whether the Jedi are still capable of protecting the republic. A sith lord was able to get into the chancellor’s bedroom, kill him and his wife, and easily dispatched of the Jedi master protecting him. If the most powerful man in the republic isn’t safe, how can we be?”

Zeravûn says:

“Oh wow. Who is this reporter? I must meet her.”

Zhar adjusts and says:

“Look, I can reassure the galaxy that this alleged and fake representation of what occurred isn’t real and that the Jedi are working day in and day out to protect the people of the Republic.”

She says:

"Thank you for your time Master."

Revan turns it off and Ekhralon says:

"I can't believe that worked so well."

Revan says:

"Of course, sow dissent and fear. If I had attacked a planet, the average person starts to think I'm the enemy. Seeing as we only attack the Jedi and politicians' people already dislike, we win the war for the people."

Malak says:

"Same thing we did to undermine and split up the Mandalorian forces on Malachor V."

Revan says:

"Take away their ability to unify and people start to think."

We smash cut to a Jedi ship landing on a green, sunny, paradise like planet, the ship is white and gold, a jedi looks up as it flies over head and lands, as MK Plus Ultra starts to play on the last flute bit plays we see the Jedi master's face drop. When the beat drops, we get intercut scenes of the group walking out of the ship. The Jedi runs away as Revan throws his lightsaber, it flies and hits the jedi master as Revan force jumps and grabs his lightsaber and lands with the rest of the Jedi rushing out. Another Master ignites his lightsaber and fights back as 10 other Jedi come out. Revan duels with the Jedi as the others appear. Zeravûn uses black force lightning eliminating 2 of them as Ekhralon bullet jumps into the fight and starts to fight 2 at the same time. Malak charges in and fights 5 at the same time with a dual blade lightsaber and he changes to dual wield stance and takes 3 of them out, then he explodes with force lightning turning them to ash. We see Revan standing still in a field, the Jedi falls to the ground as he watches everyone die. Revan walks up to him and says:

"Don't worry it's quick."

He thrusts his saber into his chest and the master drops to the ground. A Jedi comes running towards them, Revan force jumps in front of him as he swings at Ekhralon. He holds his blade back using the force and electricity starts to jump between his hand and the blade. He whispers:

"Do you know what happens after death?"

The Jedi goes white as Revan backs him up. Revan lifts him and says:

"Let's see."

He starts to life drain him midair and his body drops to the ground. Revan pauses looking at the body and says:

"Oh well it's just death I guess."

Zeravûn says:

"Remind me not to piss you off."

As he walks past to the Jedi temple. The group follow him; they enter an empty room with a large door. Zeravûn says:

"Honors?"

Revan says:

"Oh I don't know the code."

Malak says:

"Then what are we doing here?"

Revan smiles and puts explosive charges on the door and says:

"Malak have faith."

They all jump to the side as Revan detonates the door, blowing open the vault. Revan laughs as he walks into the still smoldering room. Revan puts his arms forward and says:

"Have at it."

They all enter and look through the contents of the vault. Ekhralon pulls a small physical blade out of a bag and puts it in her pockets. Malak uses the force to float all the holocrons into a single duffle bag, and Zeravûn puts a scroll in his inside pocket. They start to leave and walk into a Jedi ambush with Bastila leading it. Revan drops his bag and says:

"This seriously has to stop."

She says:

"I have to bring you in I've been ordered to."

Revan says:

“Zeravûn?”

He drops his bag and walks forward. Bastila says:

“What? Your little red man is going to save you?”

Revan stays silent as Zeravûn shouts “KORRIBAN!” Firing black lightning at all the other Jedi in the field and turning them to ash. The wind around them crackling. He then force grabs his bag. Revan walks up to Bastila who’s frozen and says:

“Go home, seriously.”

As he walks past her he says:

“Choose life.”

The group walk past. Ekhralon winks at Seravé who’s frozen. They walk into their ship and fly off. Bastila stands in the field and Seravé turns off her light saber and tugs at her shirt. Bastila falls to the ground and says:

“It’ll never end.”

Seravé kneels next to hear and puts her arm around her. She says:

“It’s ok…”

Bastila starts crying with her face in her hands.

We slowly transition to Malak walking through Star Forge's hallways; he passes Revan and Ekhralon training and watches for a couple of seconds.

He walks up to the prison level and sits in front of a starving Jedi tied up in chains in a prison. Malak knocks on the bars and says:

"You up?"

The Jedi wakes up and says:

"Well I guess I am now, thank you for that."

Malak says:

"Revan is still training that Chiss kid."

The Jedi raises an eyebrow and says:

"She's Chiss?"

Malak acknowledges but doesn't say yes. The Jedi says:

"So why are you talking to me about this?"

Malak says:

"You were a commander of the Jedi for 10 years, I've come for advice."

The jedi says:

“Advice?”

Malak says:

“Revan is too powerful for me to take him in a one-on-one fight, but with the right timing I could betray him and survive, and if you help me, I’ll free you.”

The Jedi smiles and says:

“Ah, I see.”

Malak says:

“So how would I beat Revan?”

The Jedi says:

“Perhaps the solution will come in the moment, what you need right now are allies.”

Malak says:

“For what?”

The Jedi says:

“Once Revan is dead or indisposed let’s say, there will be a power vacuum in star forge, you need to take control before it forms and take your place as the leader, so you need allies now.”

Malak smiles and says:

“The Realm of Shadows won’t betray Revan while he lives, they’d be risking too much.”

The Jedi says:

“Well you already have me; how many Jedi are locked up in here?”

Malak says:

“20 or so.”

The Jedi says:

“Well if you feed them and make them turn to you, you build an army out of his prisoners.”

Malak pauses and thinks for a second and then smiles and says:

“I knew this wouldn’t be a waste of time.”

The Jedi continues:

“And once you have 20 now Sith soldiers loyal to you, the rest will fall in line and follow you.”

Malak gets up, he unlocks the prison door and lets him off the chains. The Jedi falls to the ground grabbing his wrists. Malak says:

"I'll bring you some bedding and proper food."

The jedi says:

"Why?"

Malak pauses, smiles and says:

"Gesture of good will, you helped me, I ease you suffering, a simple transaction."

The jedi smiles, his eyes go yellow and he says:

"Thank you."

Malak leaves locking the door behind him. We linger on the Jedi still clasping his wrists as he starts to laugh maniacally. His laugh echos as we transition to Bastila in her ship.

A jedi can be seen in the hologram, it's master Atris. Bastila says:

"Sorry I needed to think outloud with someone."

Atris responds:

"No, it's alright."

Bastila says:

"You know Revan and resent his war against the Jedi."

Atris says:

"Well, I wouldn't use that word, more heavily opposed to, rather than resent."

Bastila says:

"Whatever, do you think Malak would betray Revan?"

Atris thinks for a second and says:

"Malak as a Sith lord? Could do. He was not the most stable Jedi."

Bastila says:

"So, you think he easily turned to the Sith?"

Atris pauses and says:

"Switch to a private line."

Bastila turns a dial on the hologram emitter and the screen glitches out then comes back into color. Bastila closes her door using the force, we see this from the outside with Seravé trying to listen in. Seravé runs into a small kitchen area and grabs a glass, she comes running back through and places it on the wall and listens through it. We see Atris and Bastila talking again. Atris says:

“Malak and Revan were both known to dabble in Sith holocrons and teachings.”

Bastila says:

“So, they could’ve turned during the war? Like I predicted?”

Atris says:

“I believe they did, he was trained on Korriban.”

Bastila says:

“I thought that was a rumor...”

Atris says:

“Well, the council couldn’t say “Hey one of our best soldiers fucked off to become a Sith warlord” could they?”

Bastila laughs and says:

“No, I guess they couldn’t.”

Atris says:

“Bastila, I know the council told you to chase him, but is there any evidence that Malak would betray Revan?”

Bastila pauses and says:

"From what I've seen so far, none."

Atris pauses and says:

"We received some secret information from the Sith council spies we have."

Bastila says:

"Oh? Relating to Revan?"

Atris says:

"They're planning to attack an ancient Jedi temple, now we don't know when or where, but we do know one key thing, they hated where the temple was located."

Bastila says:

"And you're telling me this?"

Atris says:

"Because you could wait in orbit for Revan, then ambush his ship as he leaves."

Bastila says:

"Firing on his engines and taking them out."

Atris says:

"The ships are mostly unshielded, so a surprise attack could take out his ability to enter hyperspace."

Bastila says:

"This is all well and good, but we don't know where the temple is."

Atris says:

"The spy I spoke to told me they objected to the mission harshly, going so far as to deny it at the time."

Bastila says:

"So?"

Atris says:

"Revan doesn't hate anywhere, so the only possible place..."

Bastila says:

"Is the one place he'd never return..."

Bastila thinks for a second and says:

“Thank you, Atris.”

She says:

And the transmission ends. Bastila sits down and sighs as we transition back to Revan and Zeravûn walking down the hallways of star forge.

Zeravûn says:

“Perhaps we collaborate with the Jedi temporarily?”

Revan looks confused and says:

“Collaborate with the Jedi?”

Zeravûn pauses and says:

“I know you’re opposed to the idea, so I won’t push it, and collaborate is the wrong word... loosen up on?

Revan says:

“Show mercy.”

Zeravun says:

“Exactly, the Sith empire doesn’t want another Sith-Jedi war, it never ends well.”

Revan says:

"This is my war though."

Zeravûn smiles and says:

"I'm aware, however think about it, just like the Jedi said when we visited the Chiss Ascendancy, the galaxy, and that includes the Jedi can't differentiate between Realm of Shadows Sith and the Sith empire."

Revan says:

"Ah politics my favorite."

Zeravûn says:

"Look I think it's best if we continue on this path of slowly calculated plays but invasion forces with Malak was too much."

Revan says:

"That was his choice, not mine. It also didn't affect the locals, most of the droids died in seconds and after Malak cleaned them up."

Zeravûn pauses and they stop walking. He says:

"Look I understand you have your war to fight and the Sith empire does support you, however I'm just warning you, to Vitiate what Malak did the other day isn't the Revan revolution the Sith support, it looks like war."

Revan smiles and says:

"I'll talk to Malak you have nothing to worry about. Now let's discuss our next plan of attack."

Zeravûn smiles and says:

"Alright, I have to discuss with one last group in the galaxy, the Hutts collaborated, the Chiss collaborated, but I fear the next won't."

Revan says:

"Oh? Who are we visiting next?"

Zeravûn pauses and says:

"The Aing tii."

Revan looks confused and says:

"I've never heard of them."

Zeravûn says:

"They live outside the outer rim, in unknown space."

Revan says:

“Oh great so a hop, skip, and 40000 light year jump.”

Zeravûn says:

“They’re an extremely secretive order that hid from the galaxy after the Jedi massacred the Chiss.”

Revan says:

“This gets better every sentence.”

Zeravûn says:

“They hate Sith and Jedi, so the rest of the order won’t help me.”

Revan pauses. Zeravûn says:

“And it doesn’t get better, they use bio-organic ships made from a kind of coral that dissipates force energy.”

Revan says:

“I don’t even know what that means.”

Zeravûn says:

“It means they’re hidden from the force.”

Revan stops and says:

“So let me get this straight, you want me to fly you into unknown space, that’s uncharted, and hope we just happen upon a massive space coral that happens to have monks living inside it.”

Zeravûn pauses and then says:

“Yeah basically.”

Revan pauses and puts his face in his hands and then says:

“Alright, we’ll do it.”

A specter turns the corner. Its white form covered by dark black robes, it’s wearing an ancient mask. Zeravûn raises an eyebrow and watches it approach. Revan’s fingers flick near his lightsaber. The specter laughs and force grabs the lightsabers, it examines them and turns them on, a scream ignites the purple and red lightsabers. Revan stands stoicly watching the specter. It speaks:

“Neither Jedi, nor Sith...”

It looks at him and examines his face. It throws the lightsabers back into his holsters. It then says:

“Good, very good.”

It turns to Zeravûn and says:

“See you soon.”

It then teleports, folding in with the universe. Revan turns to Zeravûn and says:

"So are you going to explain that or…"

Zeravûn says:

"They can be off putting can't they."

Revan says:

"It teleported away Zeravûn, what have you got me into?"

Zeravûn says:

"Don't worry, they're a neutral faction."

Revan is moving his fingers through where the specter teleported, and says:

"Yeah neutral…"

Zeravûn says:

"They have interesting force abilities."

Seeing Revan running his fingers through space, the fingers are distorting. Revan says:

"Such as?"

Zeravûn says:

"We have no idea if that was one from the future of even the past."

Revan says:

"Great so time travel and teleportation, anything else I should know about them?"

Zeravûn pauses and says:

"They're who hid the Korriban Sith for thousands of years."

Revan pauses and sighs then says:

"They're obviously good at hiding…"

We transition back to Bastila in her ship, the ship drops out of hyperspace as she watches the planet below her.

She walks back further into the command room of her ship and a Jedi council transmission starts. Bastila says:

"I'm in orbit around Malachor V, awaiting Revan."

The councilor says:

"Good, the planet has been abandoned since the war for… various reasons. So, they won't be staying long."

Bastila says:

"I can feel it even in orbit."

The councilor sighs and says:

"Just be careful Bastila, we don't want you turning."

The transmission ends and Bastila sits down. Seravé comes out and looks out at the ripped apart planet and says:

"That's Malachor V?"

Bastila says:

"That's what a mass shadow generator explosion looks like."

She stands in horror, images flash as hash electronic noises cut through of Revan standing in his ship at the same angle looking out to the destruction. Seravé turns to her and says:

"That's horrifying."

Bastila says:

"That's war."

There's a pause and Seravé says:

“I feel off.”

Bastila says:

“You feel it too?”

Seravé says:

“I hear screaming…”

Screaming starts to fill the ship, echoing through time. Bastila says:

“This place has a history.”

With a harsh electronic noise, we see a figure’s red robe as it steps through the hallways of their ship. We cut back to the women, there’s a pause as Seravé shivers with a chill.

She says:

“What was Malachor like before?”

Bastila stands up looking out to the planet and says:

“Alive, balanced in the force, ancient Sith and Jedi temples. One of the most balanced places in the galaxy.”

Seravé stands next to her and says:

“And now it’s a shadow.”

Bastila looks over to her as she looks out at the planet. She holds her as we see from the front:

"And now it's dead."

We get a wide shot in front of them, nihilus stands behind watching them as a harsh, distorted, high pitch synth plays, them, looking out to the ruined planet as the only light source in the ship as we smash cut to credits.
